At the Class

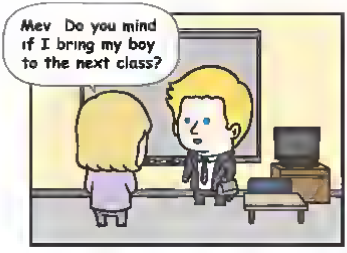
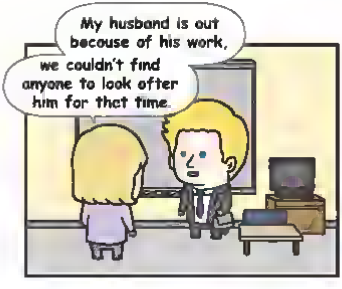
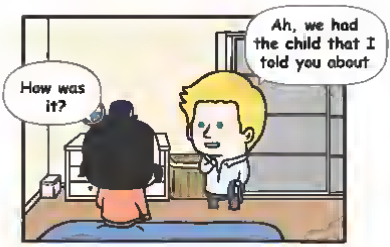
Every Wednesday, Mev has an evening class for part time students,
which are normally adults.

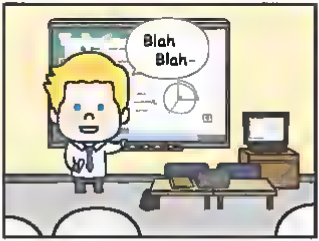




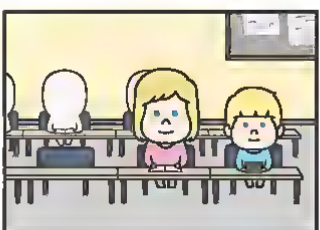
One day,
he received this request.

A week later.

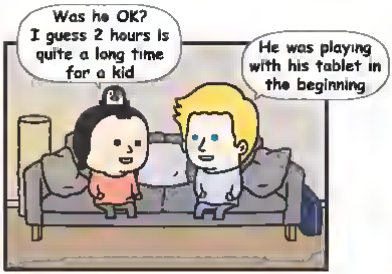




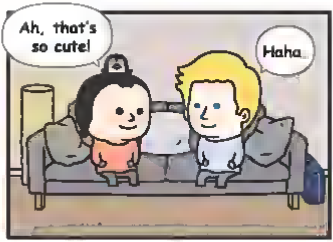
As the student mentioned,
her little boy was in the classroom
as well.



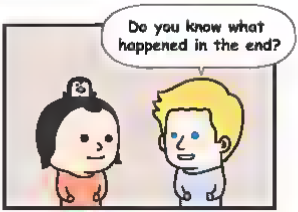
He was sitting in the front row,
next to his mom.

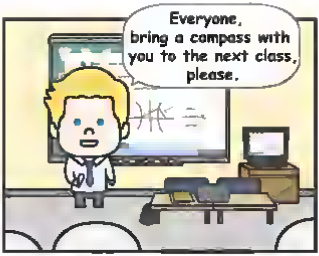


Mev told me
how well behaved he was.

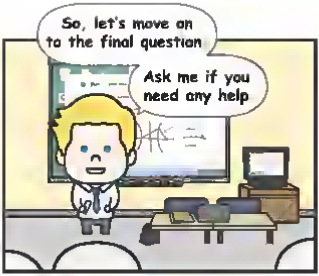


That was very cute to imagine.

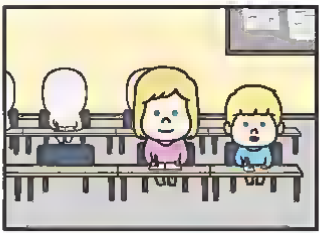


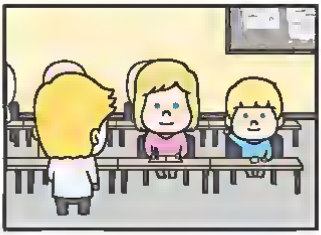


Mev was explaining to the students what they need for the next class.



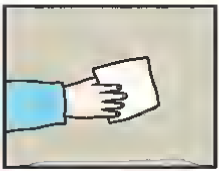
So, let's move on to the final question
Ask me if you need any help



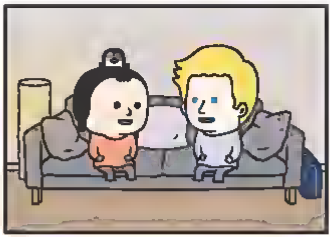


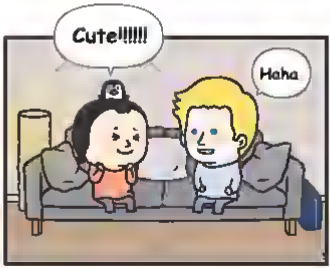
After a short while,
the boy held his hand up shyly.

When Mev approached to him,
he passed a small note to Mev.



My teacher has compasses.





That's nice to know

I'm jealous.